

BABY IS JUST LIKE A BIG RUBBER DOLL.

Has a Few Small Cuts From Being Struck by Car and Falling Three Stories.

Two-year-old Helma Hansen crawled out upon the fire-escape of her home on the third floor of No. 248 Second avenue last night and fell through the aperture to the pavement. Patrolman McGuire picked her up, carried her to a drug store and called a Harlem Hospital ambulance. Dr. McKinley found the child had no worse injury than lacerations above the right eye. When he had bathed her face, he looked at McGuire and said: "Great Scott! It's the same kid." To which McGuire replied: "I'll be blown if it ain't."

It was the second time little Helma had escaped severe injury this week. On Tuesday she wandered into the middle of the street while her mother was shopping at No. 244 Second avenue and was struck by a street car. But its fender happened to be in working order and carried her along. Patrolman McGuire was the man who got her out, and it was Dr. McKinley who dressed her small scalp wound.

When Mrs. Hansen had Helma safely tucked in bed last night the mother said it was the little stone amulet the child wore about her neck that had saved her.

VETERAN SEA FIGHTER QUILTS

As eight bells from the Dreadnaught Utah marked the noon hour yesterday Rear-Admiral E. H. C. Leuze, Commandant of the Brooklyn Navy Yard, who has seen forty-eight years' service in the navy, read his official retirement order and turned over his command to Capt. Albert Gleaves, who officially assumed charge of the yard by reading his order to assume command. The new commandant once was captain of the North Dakota and has a fine record in the navy.
